A Basket of Summer Fruit

Silent Reflection

*God smiles when I reach out
for one more kiss
because it feels so wonder full.*

*Christ is swimming
in the drop of water on your cheek.
Is that a tear?*

*We make Spirit when we dance.
Do you see it in the air around you?*

*Can eating watermelon
be communion with the universe?*

*I am created in God's image,
and my mouth loves buttered corn.*

Does God's mouth love?

Peter Bankson.

Prelude

Call To Worship

Leader:

Summer gardens are blooming.
Fruits and vegetables cover our tables
and delight our senses.

People:

God's abundance is manifest.

Leader:

All of creation is showered with greening refreshment –
the vitality to bear fruit.

Unison:

Come, worship God.

Litany of Summer

Leader:

In summer we find ourselves
caught up in different rhythms.

People:

We love the longer days,
and yearn for time to rest and play.

Leader:

And yet our work goes on;
the needs of others do not go away.

People:

Just when we'd like to rest,
the time of harvest is upon us,
and the heat seems like it will never end.

Leader:

Christ is beside us in the sun-baked fields,
offering the living water he carries for us all.

People:

God gives us summertime,
and different rhythms, too.

Unison:

God gives, and that is good.

Prayers

Common Confession

Leader:

In summer we find ourselves
caught up in different rhythms.

People:

We love vacations for ourselves,
but sometimes begrudge them for others.
We do not want the greater responsibilities
left behind when others go away.

Unison:

We choose the ways we live our lives,
and yet we're restless with the choices we have made.
O God of summer richness, forgive our selfish ways.

Individual Prayers of Confession

Assurance

Leader:

On the seventh day God rested,

and we can do the same:
God is here to love and re-create us
for the days to come.

Amen.
